

Hello friends and lovers of the earth and of musical sound,

June 10 marks the third iteration of the Soular Jazz Festival. The festival's purpose is to accelerate the transition to renewable energy. We do this by bringing folks together to hear fantastic musicians and surround them with green technology and information on common sense conservation efforts that protect the earth. I invite you to enjoy the music and support this effort!

We are really proud to have such an amazing lineup of bands at this year's festival:

Revolutionary Snake Ensemble
The A-Beez
The By & By
The Gringo Kings
Fugue Mill

We will also have great music from the award winning ensembles of:

Lexington High School Combo
Newton South High School Combo

I urge you to share the attached festival flyer with your friends who are fans of music, the environment or green technology.

There is no admission fee to attend the Soular Jazz Festival. We pay for the bands and other expenses with donations, both large and small, from people like you.

I invite you to support the mission of the Soular Jazz Festival by making a tax-deductible donation here. This donation makes the festival open to EVERONE, not just those that can afford the price of a ticket!

In addition, we will be raising money for a scholarship that will be offered to a high school senior entering college to train in environmental science, environmental engineering or green technology. To support this effort, we have created an event called the Sax Hole in One. For $30, you can buy one of only 35 tickets that will allow you to support this scholarship AND have a chance to win a truly remarkable $25,000 SmartFlower home solar system. The SmartFlower tracks the sun, giving you 40% more energy than 1 stationary setup. You can even take it with you if you move!

Buying a ticket (limited to one per person) will give you the opportunity to attempt to hit a plastic golf ball into the bell of a saxophone and win the SmartFlower! This will be a lot of fun and ALL ticket buyers will be supporting a young person to dedicate themselves to helping improve life on planet Earth!

To reserve your ticket, please email me.

Thank you for your support and please come out and enjoy the music, food, electric cars and fun!
